

Tues 15th June - 6:30pm
Sticks and Stones

A Huddersfield Salon debate about
'Freedom of Speech'

Do we have the right to be protected from those who might offend our values?

Or is it our right to free speech that matters?

Our speakers bring us two differing views to challenge our thinking...

Tim Black from Spiked Online joins us from London to passionately defend freedom of speech. He argues that for a democracy to thrive and for ideas to be debated, there can be no right to freedom from offence...

He is challenged by local lass, Fakhara Rehman who is coordinator for The Kirklees Faith Forum. Fakhara urges caution and says that with the right to freedom of speech comes responsibility. She suggests that the Media shapes our view of the world... and are we really as free in our minds as we think we are?

What do you think?

Come and join us in a lively debate!

Tuesday 15th June

Doors open at 6:00, debate starts at 6:30

Cafe Olo, The Media Centre, Huddersfield (2 mins from train station)
Tel: 01484 483010 for more info

Entrance: Suggested contribution £2.50 (more if you can)
Pay at the door
Refreshments are available at the bar

“
DON'T GET ME STARTED!
THE HUDDERSFIELD SALON”

The Salon is a space in Huddersfield for people who are interested in hearing provocative ideas from engaging speakers, and participating in stimulating debate.

<http://www.huddersfieldsalon.co.uk>